

NCAA
Division II

GREYHOUND ATHLETICS

NCAA Division II is one of three membership divisions in the National Collegiate Athletic Association, a voluntary organization comprising almost 1,300 institutions, conferences, and affiliated organizations.

The NCAA and its three membership divisions are committed to promoting education, athletics participation, and the general well-being for the 360,000 student-athletes who compete each year in NCAA-sponsored sports.

Division II is a group of institutions and conferences in all 50 states and Puerto Rico, whose members are committed to balancing the student-athlete's overall educational experience and academic success with the student-athlete's participation in high-level intercollegiate athletics competition.

Division II "Quick Facts"

- The Division II membership is focused on an "academics first" philosophy, and the division's commitment to academic excellence supports the primary mission for NCAA schools: We are preparing student-athletes to go pro in something other than sports.
- Division II student-athletes consistently graduate at a higher rate than the overall student body at Division II schools. This past year, Division II student-athletes on average graduated at a 10 percent higher rate than the total Division II student population.
- Division II has 295 member schools-279 are active and 16 are provisional or reclassifying members. Of the 295 schools, 44% are private institutions and 56% are public institutions.
- Division II has 22 active member conferences to which most of the Division II institutions belong; 17 of the active Division II member institutions have no conference affiliation and compete as independents.
- Division II has two active member institutions in Alaska and four in Hawaii; it is the only division that has member institutions in Puerto Rico.
- A regionalization philosophy is used to select teams for Division II national championships brackets from four, six or eight geographic regions of the country. This emphasis on being the best team in your geographic area helps schools prioritize scheduling of regional opponents, limit missed class time, and manage travel expenses.
- Division II has an average of 359 student-athletes per football-playing institution; for those without football, the average is 202 student-athletes.
- Division II's largest school has over 29,000 students while the smallest has a little over 400 students; the average undergraduate enrollment is 3,400 students.

- Division II has 12 NCAA-sponsored championships for men (6,116 student-athletes) and 13 NCAA-sponsored championships for women (5,828 student-athletes).
- Division II institutions sponsor an average of 6.5 men's sports and 7.2 women's sports.
- The average operating expenses per Division II institution are $2,740,000 for those institutions that have football and $1,940,000 for those institutions without football.

Division II Athletics Programs Are Unique Because...

- Traditional rivalries with regional institutions dominate schedules of many Division II athletics programs.
- Division II teams usually feature a number of local or in-state student-athletes.
- Many Division II coaches perform other jobs or functions at their institutions, including teaching.
- Many Division II student-athletes pay for school through a combination of scholarship money, grants, student loans, and employment earnings.
- Most Division II athletics programs are fully integrated into the institution's operations and budget, like other academic departments on campus.

NCAA Mission

To govern competition in a fair, safe, equitable and sportsmanlike manner, and to integrate intercollegiate athletics into higher education so that the educational experience of the student-athlete is paramount.

DII Positioning Statement

Life in the Balance. Higher education has lasting importance on an individual's future success. For this reason, the emphasis for the student-athlete experience in Division II is a comprehensive program of learning and development in a personal setting. The Division II approach provides growth opportunities through academic achievement, learning in high-level athletic competition and development of positive societal attitudes in service to community. The balance and integration of these different areas of learning opportunity provide Division II student-athletes a path to graduation while cultivating a variety of skills and knowledge for life ahead.
