Be a Part of the New UIndy Student Athletics & Recreation Center

The University of Indianapolis is a leader in Division II Athletics, which is recognized for its emphasis on encouraging scholarship even as it focuses on athletic competition. To serve our campus community more effectively—athletes and nonathletes alike—UIndy plans to build a Student Athletics & Recreation Center that will provide badly needed indoor space for students to meet physical fitness and training needs, supply office space for coaches and athletics administrators, provide a venue for intramurals, and add locker room space. This project also will enhance academics; the programs moved from the Ruth Lilly Center for Health & Fitness will create space for new academic classrooms, giving UIndy students a much better opportunity to realize the important relationship between a sound body and a sound mind.

$6 million–$8 million

The Student Athletics & Recreation Center will be built just north of Key Stadium and will provide needed locker room space for UIndy teams during football, soccer, and track and field home competitions. The plans also call for the potential addition of an indoor track with four basketball courts for intramural activities and self-directed fitness programs enjoyed by many of our 4,600 students.

Your gift can name a space in the new Student Athletics & Recreation Center.

We are accepting multiyear pledges designated to the building project. Gifts of cash, appreciated securities, and appreciated property given to the University of Indianapolis for this purpose will enable you to name a space. Naming can be done in honor of or in memory of others or may acknowledge your personal commitment to the University of Indianapolis.

More than one-fifth of UIndy students participate in one of 21 intercollegiate sports. Greyhound teams and individual students today must compete for space and equipment time, compelling many of the 1,200 resident students to go off campus for their workouts. Within the Student Athletics & Recreation Center, a new weight room will be dedicated to student-athlete use and include state-of-the-art equipment. This will make the existing Ruth Lilly fitness facilities more accessible for all UIndy students.

All naming opportunities are subject to review and approval by the University.
